

Community interventions like this green corridor allowed Cambridge Road residents to collectively address local issues and build social ties with one another.

Building Community Resilience for Climate Change

Engaging communities to have a greater stake in their shared future can contribute to building resilience. Former CLC Visiting Fellow, Herbert Dreiseitl, shares his experience in partnering CLC to change beliefs and bring about collective community action in Cambridge Road.

🕒 5 min | Read →

CONFERENCE

Catch Up on WCS 2021 and Save the Date for WCS 2022

Don't miss any of the exciting discussions from WCS 2021. Hear from global city leaders and experts on how cities can adapt to a disrupted world through our WCS Sessions, Special Addresses, Virtual Site Visits and more at our WCS YouTube Channel.

Save the date for WCS 2022 from 31 July - 3 August 2022 at the Sands Expo & Convention Centre, Marina Bay Sands, Singapore.

Watch →

VIDEO

HDB flats along the Punggol Waterway, Singapore. Source: Hanum Putri / Shutterstock

Housing a Nation: Towards a More Inclusive and Sustainable City

CLC Chairman Dr Cheong Koon Hean distils the key success factors in developing affordable housing through the case of Singapore's public housing development at the 8th International Forum on Housing and Urban Finance.

🕒 15 min | Watch →

Urban Solutions

Issue #19:
Adapting to a
Disrupted World

A COVID-19 public notice in London, England. Source: Andy Rain / EPA-EFE

Putting Cities at the Heart of Recovery

The Coalition for Urban Transitions' Catlyne Haddaoui and Freya Stanley-Price argue that national governments must not miss this opportunity to invest in cities and let them drive the recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic.

🕒 12 min | Read →

An aerial view of Sanya Mangrove Park. Source: Kongjian Yu / Turenscape

The Built Environment, Disrupted

See how the built environment sector is adapting to disruptions from climate change, an ageing workforce, resource scarcity and the COVID-19 pandemic to build cities that are more sustainable and resilient.

🕒 5 min | Read →